Comments: These are horses that are protected federally and you do not have the authority to murder them. You may think the word murder is harsh and does not apply to this situation, but you would be wrong. The number of horses depends on the resources that are available to them. If the resources aren't there to support the horses that you are stating are "too many", the horses would not be able to survive. It is actually a very simple concept. Humans have an inflated ego and like to think they need to step in and control things they really don't understand. Is it the need for power or do you get off on murdering a perfectly healthy animal? Do you get a rush by being in control of when another life will die? Your reasons for this are lies and it doesn't take a genius to see that. There's an ulterior motive for murdering healthy horses. I believe the public will be completely against this plan of yours and you will end up with a big fight on your hands. I will take action to spread this one of yours on Facebook and on Twitter where hundreds if not thousands will see what you are planning to do. You just might wind up with one hell of a fight. These are some of the few last wild horses on earth. They deserve to live their life just as much as you and I do. Learn to respect life and understand that all life has just as much of a right to be here as you do, if not more so. Last tip is go and get some help. People who get off on murdering others are called psychopaths and serial killers. You are what is wrong with the society we live in.
