Comments: The forest, though deeply disturbed by human activity, is an active, natural intelligence that is, currently, incomprehensible to us. The best action is to leave it alone. Our uninformed interference is destroying its natural functioning. Stop the controlled burns, seeding, logging, clearing. Allow its natural functions to correct the damage we've already done, even if that means allowing it to burn in wildfires. Leave the forest to heal itself. Limit human activity to hikers and horses. No grazing, no motorized vehicles or bicycles off the Dolores/Norwood Road. Stop building more trails. Stop maintaining trails. Get rid of the cyanide bombs. Allow the forest to heal itself.
