Comments: The horses should be left alone once and for all. They have every right to roam our forests. They are a source of pride, beauty, and a joy to the residents. Furthermore, these horses are known around the country (not just AZ). I've seen publications, articles and spoken with tourists who are aware of and love these beautiful animals. Should you decide to "lessen" the herd this will not only rob residents of their beauty, but reflect very badly on your organization and character (remember, they are widely known).
