Comments: The U.S. Forest Service revision of the 20-year plan, guiding how the government will manage the Tonto National Forest, will have ramifications for the Tonto's 2.8 million acres of forests, deserts, rivers, lakes and recreation areas for many generations. These plans carry the responsibility to protect the wildlife, preserve the ecosystem and take great care to preserve and protect these forests. With poor planning this land could be irreversibly damaged.
Please, for everyone's longterm benefit, make sustainability your top priority.
Thank you.
