Comments: The wild horses in America need to be left alone and stop "rounding them up" and putting them in pens or sending them to slaughter. The horses are not harming us. Any problem with horses should be addressed by local groups of people who respect horses and obey the law that says we should protect wild horses and burros. Representatives of the wealthiest should not be allowed to manipulate the wild horses into extinction in order to make more billions for themselves. Destroying our resources for the sake of greed is WRONG. 85% of American citizens want the horses protected and stop the wealthiest from ignoring every law that protects what the rest of us value.
