Comments: Washington is going to loose ski able terrain as our weather changes and continues to change. The Mission Ridge area is posed better than any other to keep the tradition of building community and playing in the mountains above any other for one reason, it is colder here than anywhere else so it will continue to get snow while others get rain. The WSDOT has all the data to verify these facts. As we saw at the end of the season at Mission the current terrain is just not enough acreage or lifts to handle the crowds. I have worked and played in the ski industry my whole life and have seen little to no infrastructure land expansions. This is a good thing for society as a whole, and the Wenatchee valley. This is a great way to bring people together doing a extremely healthy activity. Please approve this expansion.
