Comments: I support the no action alternative with some changes. I believe the Great Burn RWA is a special place. I have hiked and snowmobiled in this special area many times. It needs to be conserved. By designating the Hoodoo area semi-primitive motorized winter, non-motorized summer. With this designation no damage will occur. Snowmobiling causes no damage because the tracks disappear with the snow. No wild life is in this area once it is accessible to snowmobiles. Mountain goats do not winter in this area contrary to what some believe. Another way to achieve this is by a National Recreation Area designation. Thank you for accepting my comment.
