Comments: Hello, and thank you for taking my comments. As a resident of Montana, the steps taken in the Great Burn area are of great importance to me as they have the potential to have real impact in the Lolo area of Montana. I also have a strong affinity for Idaho and the wildness that it has always represented. As such, I am writing in support of keeping the Great Burn forest area motorless, and in every way ensuring that the wildness of the area is in no way diminished, but only strengthened in the new land management plan. With the amount of wild places that we lose every year in this country, we can't afford to follow this trend with public lands.
