Comments: I am an adult woman with cerebral palsy. I use a walker, and I have walked around Gold Creek Pond using my walker dozens of times during the spring, summer and fall, starting in about the year 2000. I really like the wide trails for folks with disabilities.

I like wetlands and ponds. I have walked around and spent time in wetlands a lot, like at Magnuson Park and Meadowbrook near my house in north Seattle, and I think they are beautiful and full of life.

I like option B and C because they have slightly bigger ponds. The ponds do not have to be huge. I want the trails to be interesting and fun and accessible. Option A would be ok too, as long as the trail is wide enough and paved.

I support restoring Gold Creek Pond, and the in-stream project near the cabins that would keep the river from taking so many trees. Thank you for your work!
