Comments: I have lived in Northern Idaho for more than 60 of my 69 years and wouldn't want to live any other place. As a former Fishery Biologist for the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service for over 30 years, I'm a dedicated environmental conservationist and firmly believe that we must exercise good stewardship and management of our natural resources. I have enjoyed our established wilderness areas as well as all the other aspects of our public lands and certainly believe that some areas are best managed as primitive and roadless areas. However, as I look over the Clearwater and Nez Perce National Forests, I believe that we already have sufficient areas protected for our future. Therefore I recommend and support the no action alternative.
