Comments: Current events with the virus would tell us that now more than ever Americans will desire free space to live and recreate. My wife and I are now retired and have many things on our bucket list. We love all snow sports including snowmobiling. We look forward to sledding in other places like the great burn. Also we look forward to driving our Utv in these areas. We also ski and hike extensively.

We would like to see access opened up more not closed. Better ideas in forest management are pertinent.

Perhaps rotating rejuvenation of given areas would be a consideration. To close everything off and condense users into small areas is not good forest health management in my mind. Now more than ever access to America must be maintained.

Thank you Galyn and Nancy Wadsworth
