Comments: I know very little about the need for more ski areas in Colorado. One question I have is about water use for making snow as well as domestic uses. So where is the water coming from for the entire operation? How much is being recycled water? How much is charged from any Forest Service allotments of ground water or surface water from any streams where water could be taken? I've noticed in other Forest Service properties where conditional use permits are used that additional environmental studies promised never happen, So be sure of what you are doing for well thought out long term results? Long term isn't a year but much much longer.
