Comments: To whom it may concern,

I would like to express my objection to the proposed logging project in the Medicine Bow National Forest. This project is far too large to be continued without an extensive survey of its potential environmental impact in the Forest. It could compromise large swaths of roadless areas, have far reaching detrimental effects on forest ecosystems, and degrade the wildness of this area that so many come to for recreation. The Forest is an incredible resource for southeast Wyoming and it should be treated with more regard for its protection and continuation rather than its profitability.

Thank you for your time,
Gus
