Comments: Since I was three years old I have been skiing with my family. Therefore, living in Colorado, the Keystone Bergman Bowl Project is of great importance to me. Living in Colorado, I have noticed many tourists and novice skiers entering the state. This is why I am excited to see the plans for Keystone's terrain expansion into Bergman Bowl. The Bergman terrain expansion project will provide access to an incredible, high alpine skiing and riding experience for beginners and novice skiers, who may not currently hike or cat into Bergman. Additionally, with the recovery from the coronavirus crisis, tourism is going to be crucial for Colorado, looking forward. The terrain expansion would help attract individuals and families from across the country. Also, Keystone's Bergman project is a demonstration of the resort's and our community's resiliency as we recover socially and economically from COVID-19. Finally, I encourage the Forest Service to approve this important project and am excited to see it come to life. Thanks.
