Comments: Please leave the land as is. The beauty of our nation's forests are in it's trees. The health of our communities are in it's trees and biodiversity. Our earth needs it's vegetation now more than ever. We do not need more large scale construction. We need to think smaller and simpler. Let us keep our region what makes it what it is. People do not come to see clear cut swaths of former forest. People come to walk and live amongst the trees. The environmental impact is overwhelming more damaging than the miniscule economic impact this may have. It is not worth it. Before absent mindedly destroying an ecosystem, think of not only the immediate impacts but the downstream effects.
