Comments: It is difficult to comment on the project until the terms "stand improvement" and "commercial thinning" are defined. Do you plan to methodically remove one out of 20 trees without disturbing the forest around it for the true purpose of caring for the forest and wildlife, because that is the guise this is under? Or are you clear cutting nearly 4000 acres? And where will the money go? $20/hr for a few local lumberjacks and the rest goes to the top? These key details need to be specifically stated otherwise we assume the worst - and we are likely right in that assumption.

Our forests keep the planet in balance and us alive. Obviously clear cutting needs no new environment impact study - we know it kills everything in its path. My hope is that the forest is being managed by people who love it and have its best interest in mind. Please just do the right thing for the right reasons!
