Comments: This clear cutting project needs to be reconsidered. I know it is more expensive to manage a cut, but it leaves a sustainable forest that is healthy and can be harvested again and again in shorter periods of time. Clear cutting harms water, fish, soil, habitat, soil stability and allows the introduction of non-local species to thrive.

We live in a time of instability, it is incumbent of government and its entities to engage in policy that protects, not destroy.
