Comments: Please do not return to the heavy harvesting of timber in the North Fork Nooksack. That is the backyard that I use for my closest access to true high quality wilderness hiking and climbing. The clear cuts that were allowed in the '80s are still a glaring eyesore. The impacts of that logging still reverberate with increased fire hazard, exotic species invasions, impaired watershed functions. Leave it as natural as possible for it's highest value: recreation and watershed and climate protection. Thank you for listening.
