Comments: The proposed Cave Management Forest Order as described in the online KTVZ article sounds good. I would add that enforcement and publicity are critical to success. There needs to be sufficient staff to monitor the caves. The consequences of breaking the rules should be severe, such as the $5,000 fine mentioned in the article and jail time.

When publicizing the order, consider using media that reach all demographics. In addition to sending press releases to traditional print, television, and radio outlets, place ads on Facebook, Instagram, Youtube, etc.

Wear a mask in public indoor places to protect yourself and others.
