Comments: Absolutely not. I beg of you, the state of Washington begs of you, and the world begs of you...

Please keep the very little land that we have remaining that we've managed to keep our dirty hands from destroying, please keep it safe. There is no going back. Jobs will come and jobs will go, but it's never worth the destruction, time and time again. For better or worse, the outcome and future of this land depends on you: Make sure you can look at your grandchildren and be proud of your actions.
