Comments: As a Coloradan, it is easy to spot the need for the wild spaces around us. Not just for the enjoyment of humans, but for the ecosystem around us that makes it possible to have a life here. The Whitney Creek project would cut through my favorite nature and activity spot that would also erase habitat for so many creatures in the valley and is a part of keeping one of our best assets thriving, a vibrant and wild ecosystem.

I do not want to see this project wipe out so many good aspects and uses of a beautiful piece of nature for reasons that will only provide a detriment to the animals and humans that directly utilize the resources of the Homestake Valley in a more sustainable manner.
