Comments: At this time of growing carbon woes, it is irresponsible to continue in our heavy resource extractive path, and the USFS must change course to an approach that takes restoration as its primary goal. Our fish populations in the Northwest have endured so much abuse, and the proposed actions would further devastate their populations. The actions proposed are supposed to be prohibited in this area anyway, so how this plan was even thought of is baffling to me. Correct the mistakes you have made; do not further degrade this area.
