Comments: There has been plenty of irresponsible human impact on our environment so I am wary of your positive perspective and would like to inquire about the steps you are taking. Are there provisions for slope stability while clearcutting/

Can clear cutting be minimized? is the ratio for commercial thinning higher because of greed? how can you minimize environmental damage especially in riparian areas?

will you select and prioritize re-establishment of historic and environmentally appropriate trees and plants instead of what is easiest, and cheapest. We have a moron for a president. He has no comprehension of nature and the environment. It is up to us, those of us who care, to ask and hope and demand that the environment is cared for the way we would care for our loved ones. thank you.
