

Data Submitted (UTC 11): 7/4/2020 12:51:37 PM

First name: Deb

Last name: Williamson

Organization:

Title:

Comments:

First, ski area expansion does not justify lynx habitat destruction.

Second, additional development in the East Hermosa Creek watershed, with its reviving cutthroat trout population, is simply unacceptable. We must think about the long term consequences of human interaction with fragile eco zones.

Lastly, the San Juan National Forest must insist on a detailed analysis of climate change consequences by all projects proposed on our national forest, including ski area expansions.