Comments: The town of Steamboat cannot handle being Colorado's 2nd Largest Ski Town. We are at or over capacity for traffic, lodging, and services throughout the year as it is. An additional 4,000 people up a gondola at any given time would surely spread some folks out on the mountain and help short-term for the forested areas there, but encourage vastly more to visit this tiny gateway community and, ultimately, crowd the very mountain you are trying to keep more open. Perhaps a more limited increase could be better tolerated, or phasing if you feel so compelled to do this project. I am against these proposed actions.
