

Data Submitted (UTC 11): 8/3/2020 12:26:22 AM

First name: Jeremy

Last name: Wesley

Organization:

Title:

Comments: Hi,

I travel to Steamboat often, I even own a condo on the mountain.

I am excited to hear about these changes and think they can solve one of the biggest negatives about steamboat by increasing the base uphill capacity. I have only one change suggestion. The new gondala should not be blue nor should it be called wild blue. I don't know the reasoning behind this name but I understand the Dopplemayr has a history of making its lifts chair or cars blue in color. The problem I can foresee is having two gondolas will cause confusion for those that do not frequent the mountain and know the difference in the two gondolas. Having both gondolas be blue in color will cause even more confusion. I don't have any suggestions as I'm sure you can come up with new color and name that does not involve using the same color as the existing new gondala.

My only suggestion is that it should not be blue or use blue in the name.