Comments: As humans spread their concrete and destruction across our vast country, I do believe we must keep our present pristine habitats just as they are. Why must we encroach on our last remaining wild areas? Money needs to stop motivating people to destroy what we still have. Take the money option out of the equation about our public lands. These huge decisions should be put to a vote by all the people of this United States. We have one opportunity not to exploit everything for the greed of a few. Just leave these places as they are..wild and beautiful. I say, back off. No timber, no airstrips, no mining, no grazing of domestic animals, no oil exploration!! We have done enough damage. It needs to stop.
