Comments: As priceless, life-sustaining forests in my own state are burning at an unprecedented rate it boggles my mind even more than it already did that we would willingly destroy such ancient and critical forests like the Tongass. It's a move that not only provides a negligible economic boost, but it puts our own survival and the survival of the people and creatures of Alaska at further risk. Please, make this insanity stop and leave the Tongass to thrive and benefit us in the ways it only can when we leave it alone.
