Comments: please do not accept the current administrations proposal for a massive timber sale that would destroy more than 5,100 acres of critical old-growth habitat in the Tongass National Forest in Southeast Alaska. now, more than ever, our beloved country needs all the carbon-absorbing resources possible. it may be easy to make a decision to log areas of our precious landscape simply because we cannot "see" the area or do not have a personal connection to it. let us not continue down the road of destruction for potential economic gain. best regards
