Comments: I am in complete opposition of this project, specifically the logging aspect of America's largest rainforest. Core values of the Forestry Department are being thrown out the window with this project and we cannot let that happen. Shame on you. Carbon sinks such as the Tongass forest are extremely important now more than ever, when we need old forests and their capacity to store carbon in their root systems. Listen to the scientists and the public - as should always be the case - instead of money-driven stakeholders that do not encompass the mental abilities to understand the dire consequences this will cause. The public is demanding that you do your job - a request that we shouldn't have to do in the first place.
