Comments: Our forests are the lungs of the earth and are vital for all creatures on earth, regardless of where they live. It is foolhardy to cut them down because we all need to breathe. Also, these old forests provide habitat for wild life and the indigenous people who live nearby. These forests provide revenue to local businesses because of their recreational value. If they are cut, it actually costs taxpayers money. I personally don't pay taxes so that I can support big lumber companies, and I doubt that many of us do. This project is outrageous in the damage it will cause! How dare the federal government take what belongs to all of us, and give it to private corporations! Please reconsider this action!
