Comments: To whom it may concern,

Seven years ago I took a trip down the South Fork of the Salmon. That was the trip where I learned how to fly fish. My life would not be the same if I had not been able to take that trip and fish that river. This plan to divert the river from its original route and dig pits makes me nauseous. Already we have ripped apart this land, causing potentially irreversible damage to our delicate ecosystems. You have no right to take that river from us, ruining fish populations and stealing away the opportunity for other little girls to love that river. I am asking you to please reconsider this proposal. I honestly don't know if I can bear to see another piece of our wild lands recklessly depleted. Stop playing God.
