Comments: The Salmon River is a unique and wondrous stretch of pristine landscape that is imperative to maintain in its most natural state. This piece of land draws many people to Idaho to enjoy fishing, hunting, rafting and healing in nature. Re-opening pit mining in this area would be detrimental to not only the health and well being of many people and animals, but also the tourism industry. This act would be catastrophic. There are increasingly few places as pristine and peaceful as the Salmon. Please do not take yet another one from the people who rely on these places for their health and respite. Please do not take another habitat away from endangered salmon and trout.
