Comments: It absolutely breaks my heart to learn about this project. The south fork salmon is one of the most pristine and marvelous rivers I have ever had the privilege to experience. The water is so pure, the wildlife so ample. I can't even imagine the severe extent of damage that this project would commit on this land. It feels like a crime against our planet and the sacred land that sustains us. The water that preserves the life of millions of fish and other creatures, that nourishes the plants, that brings joy to all those that experience it. And not to mention the indigenous history and connection to this land. It's absolutely tragic that foreign corporations, who have never even experience the south fork, feel they have the right to rape and exploit this land. This is an absolute devastation and one of the most viscerally painful projects I have ever learned about. I stand behind the thousands of humans who will do anything to protect this land. I am ready to do whatever it takes to protect this river.
