Comments: As a river guide from a neighboring state I had heard the whispers of a trip down the pristine and awesome Salmon River, but I was never able to make it a reality for myself. However, just this very month I was incredibly blessed to finally experience just how magical it truly is. We were met by an abundance of different birds as well as river otters and Big Horn Sheep! Living in harmony with the wildlife and river itself brought about a quiet in me that I had never felt before. I have left the river with an understanding and wholeness about myself that I didn't have before. It is difficult to explain, and I would say the best way to understand is to experience it for yourself. Hire people who know and can take you to the magic. Let yourself experience all the gifts this incredible river has to offer us. Leave it a better person than you found it. If you go, I guarantee you will.
