

Data Submitted (UTC 11): 9/17/2020 9:03:10 AM

First name: Sean

Last name: O'Dell

Organization:

Title:

Comments: Despite a commitment to move away from unsustainable old-growth timber sales, the U.S. Forest Service continues to offer these sales in the Tongass National Forest. More clearcutting will damage the real drivers of southeast Alaska's economy: fish, wildlife and tourism. This is another disgusting abuse of power from those that are sworn to protect this fragile ecosystem and you should be ashamed of yourselves.