Comments: The fact has always been that mining companies out live people. That is how they know they can lie to people. Today will make promises of safe-guarding the environment, preserving the beauty, protecting species, etc.(they know the language well). 30 years and 50 years from today they will not care what promises were made. I prefer saving the Coronado National Forest from any mining activity today. This includes exploratory drilling for mineral deposits. Don't touch our National Forests period.
