Comments: Is nothing sacred any more??? Cibola Forest and Sandia Crest is part of the national forest service for a reason. To protect it. That includes protection from invasion of noise, more plastic, more screaming children, more disruption of the look of the natural environment. Your job is to protect the natural environment and it's aesthetics, not destroy or compromise it as this would do.

This monstrosity belongs in a children's for-profit water park, not the national forest. It is a betrayal of your charter to put it in a national forest. We pay your salary through our taxes to protect national forests, not destroy them with such an abomination.
