

Data Submitted (UTC 11): 9/25/2020 9:06:07 PM

First name: Ellen

Last name: McCann

Organization:

Title:

Comments: ebikes don't belong in forests. Wilderness protection was enacted as a way to keep wild critters in wild spaces for us to get out and explore. All kinds of assaults are happening to our wilderness areas, from ebikes to using helicopters and chainsaws. Wilderness is no longer wilderness if you keep stepping up the game for motorized action. Knock it off. We have plenty of places for people to ride their bikes. Let us who want to get away from the modern world do so in peace. Ethics!! We all got them, and that little voice telling you this is wrong is the voice of ethics. Knock of the nonsense. We were meant to be protectors not destroyers and letting in bikes destroys the whole definition of wild. I love this planet and wish you guys would quit messing with it.