Comments: As a native Westerner who has been privileged to hike and camp in our national forests and national parks over a long lifetime and as an environmentally motivated voter, I adamantly oppose the proposal to allow ebikes to be used on their trails. They would be destructive of the environment, obstructive to the life activities of the species that live there, and disruptive of the peace and activities of all other frequenters of these lands. The point of going out into nature is to have contact with nature. All day every day, peace-loving Americans are harassed by the bullies who push and shove everyone else and have to blast past them on every road and sidewalk. Our national and wilderness lands are an antidote to this and their peace should be preserved for all Americans to benefit from.
