Comments: As an environmental educator, I see no reason whatsoever to encourage e-bikes in natural areas. E-bikes bring ordinarily less fit riders too far away from their home base. We do not want to rescue lost and unfit e-bike riders, as well as their broken e-bikes. The presence of e-bikes will further disturb the shrinking spaces of our stressed native habitats and their creatures. Hikers and campers will be driven deeper into natural habitat to get away from e-bikes, thus exacerbating the already cramped native habitats. Additionally, there will be a huge rush for e-bike company owners to bid for the rental concession in each park, which adds to the trash and traffic. The advantages are few and for only a few e-bike riders, but the disadvantages are great and for many reasons.
