Comments: Hello,

I am concerned about the proposed mine and its impacts on fish populations. Your DEIS seem to indicate that there is a potential for the tunnel to fail, and that fish might have to be transported with vehicles. Have you done a study on how that would affect the fish? In addition, you mention that there is a low chance of population-level impacts. Who decides this? What is the threshold? How many fish is the Forest Service okay with losing? You seem to making some very subjective comments, so I am looking forward to more conclusive studies before you make a final decision. Thank you, and have a great day.
