Comments: I am submitting a comment to officially request additional time for submitting comments. As someone who grew up in Central Idaho and has spent part of my career working on the permitting process for large civil engineering projects, the provided comment period is laughably short and egregiously violates the spirit of the process. In the interest of the public and the people and environment potentially impacted, you need to allow more time for review and detailed analysis of the proposal. Idaho is too great to give its resources anything less than our best efforts.
