Comments: as far as need goes, there is no real justification to recreate like this on the mountain top. a coaster can be built in town. obviously economics is the real issue behind building this. the need to let people who are not physically fit to do this there is in my opinion, misguided. the open and wild spaces should not be developed like this. one can already drive to the top of the mountain and look at the beautiful view, breathe some fresh air, feel the coolness, and hear the quiet. this is an interference with communing with the outdoors which we need more not less of.

thank you for all you do.
