Comments: I use to dislike ebikes and the entire movement. Something about earning your climbs like everyone else on normal bikes only seemed fair. My dad was always a dirt biker and was feeling left out when his kids started mountain biking. Both him and my mom wanted to join the fun. They were most interested in e-mountain bikes. They both got them and had a blast riding with us. It was amazing to see their enjoyment. I took them out on a long ride and it was the most fun I'd had for a while. As a new father I don't always have the time to get out and ride long rides. I got an e-mountain bike as well. I ride it 30% of the time compared to my analog bike but I really love it. I've seen a huge change of opinion with my friends and see new people on the trails that I know wouldn't be able to ride without an ebike. Plain and simple these are here to stay and they are good. I support the expansion and use of ebikes on the forest service.
