Comments: I appreciate the opportunity given by the US Forest Service to express our opinions. The only difference between a class 1 (C-1) E-bike and a normal pedal mountain bike is the weight. Yes, the C-1 does have an electric motor but it does not work until human power is applied. It is no different than a 240 pound person riding a normal pedal bike and a 180 pound person riding an E-bike. It allows me to keep up with my two (2) sons who ride MTBs. I have bad knees and back issues my E-bike allows me to access great single track MTB trails without any additional damage to the trails. Thank you for your consideration, time, and effort regarding allowing C-1 E-bikes on non-motorized mountain bike single track trails.

Respectfully,

Gary
