Comments: I think that e-bikes that give you power assist should be allowed. They don't really do anymore damage than a normal mountain bike and surly not as much as a horse or other pack stock. They are quiet and therefore don't mess with solitude and many times you can't even tell when a person is on an E Bike. They also open the doors for recreation to happen for people of different abilities and offer a way for a more diverse group to explore areas where bikes are allowed. The e bike is also a great equalizer when it comes to using nature as a therapy tool for mental illness. E bikes also allow older people the opportunity to explore the Forest and keep a healthier lifestyle. The outdoors and Forest land should be enjoyed by all.
