Comments: I have been an avid mountain biker for 30 years. This year was the first time I've experienced a class one ebike. I can honestly say that these bikes post no more threat or danger than a standard mountain bike. Those who are giving negative opinions, I am quite sure, have never ridden an ebike. Inexperienced riders will not hop on an ebike and just go ripping up mountain trails without the necessary skills as a regular mountain biker. Remember the absolute fear against snowboarders on mountains and ski resorts? Those fears, too, were misjudged and snowboarders are accepted along with skiers. The same scenario is happening with the ebike. I think I can safely say that the future of regular mountain bikes are going to disappear like the standard 26-in wheel did.
