Comments: I am a avid trail user of many modes: hike, bike, horse. I believe in increasing usage of our public lands and trails. E-bikes would do this but at what cost?

Hikers and bikers seem to have virtually no negative outcome encounters. Hikers and horses occasionally have encounters that have a poor outcome, but its reasonable with a good horse. Mt. bikers and horses definitely can have poor outcome encounters and it is risky business. I can't imagine what the outcomes would be for horse people if e-bikes are allowed on trails. Obviously more people will have access and go deeper into the woods. In my humble opinion, E-bikes are a motorized vehicle and should be limited in where they can go on FS land. I also feel that Mt. bikes should remain limited on where they can ride.
