Comments: Access for those with disabilities at a minimum should be approved.

I ride an arm powered e-assist bike and depend on the motor to have any ability to ride responsibly on our public lands.

Please recognize that many people with a disability want access to more than dirt roads and other areas that motor vehicles are used. We are on low impact machines and travel slower than the average bike, even with e-assist.

E-assist is a life changing development for those of us who cannot get out and hike on trails due to a disability.
